

THE LOUISVILLE WEEKLY COURIER--A CHEAP PAPER FOR THE MAN OF BUSINESS, THE FARMER, AND THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

WEEKLY COURIER

SATURDAY JUNE 25 1856.

The Young Democrats.

The meeting of young men, on Saturday night, favorable to the election of Buchanan and Breckinridge, was large and enthusiastic. Arrangements were made for prosecuting the campaign with ardor, and though much is not hoped for in Louisville, the State is counted on as a certainty. We publish elsewhere the official proceedings of the meeting.

Another Breeze.

It is a great pity that our Congressman cannot keep cool during this outrageously hot weather. They see ambitions of keeping up to the most ardent point. See our telegraphic report of the proceedings of the House on Saturday, in which Keitt, of S. C., calls Burlingame, of Mass., a liar. A meeting is threatened and gunpowder may explode.

Mr. Buchanan's Letter.

We give in this morning the letter of Mr. Buchanan, accepting the Presidential nomination tendered him by the Cincinnati Convention. As heretofore announced, it will be seen that he places himself unequivocally and unreservedly upon the platform adopted by his party.

The Whig National Convention.

In accordance with the request of the State Executive Committee, the Whigs of Kentucky will meet in Convention at Louisville, on Thursday, July 4th, 1856.

Mr. Fillmore's Arrival.

The Ex-President arrived at New York on Sunday, and his friends desecrated the holy day by firing cannon and other noisy demonstrations. The sixth commandment, it is supposed, not to be found in the "American Bible," of which the Know-Nothings pray so much.

Wanted.

The New York Herald advertises for a good, graphic, compact and complete history of the birth, growth, expansion, decline, collapse, death and burial of the great Know-Nothing party, for the use of all the political blackheads of the day during this Presidential contest.

John Van Buren.

The New York Herald says that John Van Buren's sudden devotion to Southern men and Southern rights is explained by his approaching marriage with a young lady recently returned from Europe, and in that city--the only child of a wealthy Senator of South Carolina, lately deceased. John will thus become a large landholder.

Foreign News.

The news by the Atlantic--a telegraphic summary of which we publish this morning--contains much that is of interest regarding our relations with England. The British, hitherto very belligerous, have softened down materially since the dismissal of Crampton, and think that it is mere personal matter, about which no serious action should be taken. We anticipated that this decisive course of our government would effectually stop the threatening of John Bull.

Where will we go?

In view of the utter annihilation of the Know-Nothing party in November next--a necessary result of the overwhelming defeat Fillmore is bound to sustain--this is a question many good men will have to put to themselves. Would it not be well, therefore, for some aspiring gentlemen to be a little cautious, how they conduct themselves in the meantime? We believe the Whig party will be successfully reorganized, and that in two years it will be more pure and powerful than it has ever yet been. We now have on our side on some men who will be seeking refuge in its ranks, but who are in a fair way to place themselves beyond the pale of admission. Look out.

Fremont's Nomination.

We see in our Eastern editions that it is very generally thought by well-informed men, that the nomination of Fremont, by the Black Republican Convention, has improved Buchanan's prospects. Fremont's nomination is not supported but little genuine enthusiasm. The Pennsylvaniaians are exceedingly dissatisfied, and do not hesitate to say that it is now certain of that party will be successfully reorganized, and that in two years it will be more pure and powerful than it has ever yet been. We now have on our side on some men who will be seeking refuge in its ranks, but who are in a fair way to place themselves beyond the pale of admission. Look out.

New Amendment for Juveniles.

At a trial in Charleston, Va., the jury in the case of Goliapp Collinger, forger, were out for a sum five or six hours, and were unable to agree, and getting tired of being confined in a small room in the court house, proposed the constable in attendance to let them out in the front yard to play marbles, which he did, and forbade them to speak to any person. The scene attracted a crowd of the town's people; the constable had his hands full in keeping the crowd from encroaching too near the marbles. The jury however, sufficiently annoyed themselves, and might as well have been sent to the gallows, as to have been sent to the gallows.

The trial was great excitement in Wall street, New York, Wednesday afternoon, in consequence of an attack with a cowhide having been made upon a M. Bradford, Beaver street, by Mr. Benj. Wood, a brother of the Mayor. M. B. stated that he expected an attack, and carried a revolver; that when Wood struck him down, it was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

Now York Races.--The Courier, as "inevitably a Whig paper," has now supporting it's nomination. The Courier is now a Whig paper, and is not supporting Buchanan. The paper has been of a tower of strength, and has knocked him down. It was knocked from his hand. He received several blows from the cowhide on his arm, but finally closed with Wood, and both fell on the gutter, when he was dragged off by an accomplice of his. The cause of the difficulty is understood to be a communication published in the Times, said to have been written by Bradford, on the subject of lottery gambling.

